SPEAKER CRISP COMPIMENTED

Yote of Thanks.

NEWSPAPER MEN SING THE DOXOLOGY

And the Country Echoes the Sentiment from Its Heart.

THREE GOOD SUMMER JOBS FILLED

President Cleveland Kills the Brunswick Harbor Bill-Representatives Leaving-No Extra Session.

Washington, March 4 .- (Special.)-The fifty-third congress is a thing of the past. It expired at noon today, and as its life went out, the newspaper correspondents in the press gallery, to the number of 200, sang the doxology, to the great amusement of the members and the galleries. It was their expression of joy at relief from the long and tinuous labors which a congress imposes mon them.

The feature of the close of congress was the demonstration of friendship and approval accorded Speaker Crisp by the house. In the history of this country there never has been an occasion when the representatives instrated such warm personal feeling and regard for a speaker. Democrats and licans alike joined in it. It came about over a resolution introduced by Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, a republican, thanking Speaker Crisp for the ability and fairness he had displayed in presiding over the house.

Mr. Cannon delivered a brief speech in which he complimented the speaker in the most flattering terms, and stated that as a representative of the republican side of the chamber of the house, he desired, representing that entire side, to thank the speaker for the impartiality and ability he had displayed as the presiding officer of the house. Then Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, made a neat speech for the democratic side, and Jerry Simpson spoke for the populists. Simpson's speech was brief, but of the most complimentary nature. He stated that even a populist speaker could not have afforded more courtesies to the populist members of the house than did Speaker Crisp. He had been fair and impartial in everything, and in the name of all the populists he desired to thank him and wish him every success in meaker was not in the chair. He had been nied of what was to occur and had retired to his office calling Mr. Hatch to oc and speech making were over Mr. Cannon moved the adoption of the resolution by a rising vote. Every democrat, every populits and every republican, with three exceptions arose. These three exceptions were Tom Reed, of Maine; Dalzell, of Pennsylvanot one of them voted against the resolution and it was declared adopted unanimously. These men simply would not vote for it, and by their own colleagues they have been roundly censured for their action. Reed has been very bitter against Speaker Crisp since last congress, when the speaker took occasion to leave the chair and take the floor against one of the Maine ran's vicious assaults upon the democratic side. In his speech Judge Crisp was very severe against the Maine man and since that time Mr. Reed has continued to nurse his grievance against the Georgian. Dalrell and Payne are both candidates for the position of chairman of the committee on ways and means in the next congress and as Reed has the appointment, these men, alspeaker, are endeavoring to curry favor with "Burly Tom."

When the resolution was declared adopted Speaker Crisp was sent for, and as he climbed to his stand the house gave vent to long continued applause and cheering. In this every man on the floor, with the same three exceptions, joined, together with every man and woman in the galleries. speakers reply came from his heart He was naturally not only deeply grateful to the house for the compliment extended to him today, but also for what the house did last night in its unanimous action, making him a member of the international moretary congress. After the house adjourned, the members crowded into the speaker's fice to bid him goodby and to express ap-Proval of his entire course as presiding offi-cer. Though the strain on him has been the house and senate committee today and each one expressed a willingness to attend the conference whenever Mr. Cleveland takes action in calling the conference together. Some of the silver men in congress, however, have very serious doubts as to whether or not Mr. Cleveland will take any immediate action. They believe Ris Confreres Give Him an Unanimons that this selection of a free coinage committee on the part of congress will damper his ardor or cause him to hold back, but as he suggested the matter and has beer the chief mover in it, he is in honor bound to take steps to call the conference together immediately.

Sayers Saves Williams. During the closing hours of congress Chairman Sayers, f the appropriation comnittee, did some magnificent work in cutting down appropriations to the bills approved of by the senate. Mr. Sayers managed to knock out some $20,000,000 put into these bills by the senate and reduced the total amount of appropriations made by this congress to about $10,000,000 below the b.llion dollar mark. Thus, after all, this lican congress as a billion dollar affair. Cleveland Kills Brunswick's Bill. At 8 o'clock this morning, when but few members were present in the house, the Brunswick harbor bill was rushed through in post haste and sent to the president for his signature. Colonel Goodyear has been here urging it and the entire Georgia delegation put its shoulder to the wheel and put it through both houses of congress after 3 o'clock this morning. But Mr. Cleveland killed it. He didn't veto it, but allowed it to remain unacted upon on his table. In other words, he applied the pocket veto

SCENES IN THE HOUSE. Ladies Invited to Seats-Mr. Crisp's

Speech.
Washington, March 4.-The house adjourned promptly at noon today, in the presence of crowded galleries. It had taken a recess at 3:15 o'clock this morning, after disposing of the naval appropriation bill which was passed exactly as it came from

At 8 o'clock the house reassembled and and in passing resolutions complimen .r. to Speaker Crisp. These resolutions were presented by Mr. Cannon, republican, of Illinois, for the republicans, upon the refusal of Mr. Reed to be a party to the matter. Mr. Reed, probably with the emphatic declination of the democrats to endorse his administration of the speakership fresh in his mind, also refrained from vot ing on the resolutions. Mr. Wilson, demo-crat, of West Virginia, the democratic leader and the new postmaster general, made his valedictory in complimenting Speaker

But fourteen members were present when

Speaker Crisp called the house to order at 8 o'clock this morning.

Under unanimous consent, Mr. Bankhead, democrat, of Alabama, secured the passage of a senate bill amending the act authorizing the Texarkana and Fort Smith authorizing the Texarkan and Fort Smith Railway Company to construct a bridge over the South river, Arkansas, A senate bill amending the river and har-bor act of 1894 to widen the harbor at Brunswick, Ga., and appropriating $30,000 for each 100 feet of width until it shall be 500 feet wide, was passed, Grosvenor Attacks Populists.

Mr. Grosvenor precipitated a debate or the silver question by his severe strictures upon the populist party. He characterized it as a party small in number and smaller in the next congress. He contended that if the international monetary conference shall prove a success, many of these ger will be out of a job. He did not believe that if bimetallism at 16 to 1 should be accom-plished and taken out of politics, they would agree to it.

Mr. Simpson, populist, of Kansas, replying to Mr. Grosvenor's charge of dema-gogy as applied to the populist party, said that it came with poor grace from republi-cans who had persistently played the dem-agogue on this subject, and that the people of the country never knew where

The point of no quorum was made by Mr. Simpson against a bill called up by Mr. Livingston for the relief of Elsas, May & Co., of Atlanta. It was then 10 o'clock and the galleries were crowded with spectators.

Mr. Dockery appealed to Mr. Simpson to withdraw his point, but the latter refused

While the house was waiting for a quorum to appear Mr. Springer asked unani-mous consent to allow members to print remarks on the monetary conference proposition, but Mr. Hatch objected.

Mr. Simpson finally withdrew his point of no quorum and the house, on motion of Mr. Dockery, then, at 10:15, took a recess until 11 o'clock.

When the house reassembled at 11 o'clock a senate clerk announced the appointment of the monetary conference members on the part of the senate and also the resolu-tion providing for adjournment. The reso-

Welcomes the End.

Promptly Retaliates in Kind. CALL IS CALLED DOWN IN A SPEECH

Vice-President Stevenson Makes a Pleas ant Speech and Declares the Senate Adjourned.

Washington, March 4.-The last message which the president sent to congress, through the joint committee which waited upon him to ask whether he had any further communication to make to it, was a tendering of congratulations to congress at the conclusion of its labors. Senator Voorhees, in delivering that mes sage, did so in a spirit of humorous gravity which led irresistibly to an outburst of aughter and applause in the senate chamber and in the galleries packed with spec tators.

In the farewell words of the vice presiden testimony was borne to the magnitude of the questions determined by the senate during the congress just expiring and to the ability with which they had been discussed. With the fall of the gavel, he said, the great debates and the important legislation of the fifty-third congress would pass into the domain of history.

During the brief session beginning at ! o'clock and terminating at noon, there was little done except the formalities of rece.ving messages from the house, requesting the signature of the president to enolled bills and of announcing such signatures. The last two of the appropriation bills-the naval and the deficiency-were signed by the vice president at 9:30 o'clock a. m. and 9:50 o'clock a. m., respectively and were then transmitted to the president.

The winding up scenes were enlivened by a discussion between Senators Morgan and Gray upon the Behring sea seal fisheries question, and by a highly amusing one between Senator Call and Senators Aldrich, Gorman and Wolcott in reference to Mr. Call's resolution for a special committee to investigate the doings of the Louisiana, or Honduras Lottery Company. Louisiana, or Honduras Lottery Company. In his indignation at the failure of his resution, Mr. Call did not hesitate at declaolution, Mr. Call did not hesitate at declaring that the religious and moral people of the country would supply the expenses for the investigation which Mr. Gorman "desired to suppress." And when Mr. Aldrich intimated that Mr. Call's purpose was to affect politics in Florida, and not to promote morality, the Florida senator pronounced Mr. Aldrich's statement as untrue and without any warrant except that the senator "desires to promote lotteries in senator "desires to promote lotteries in the United States."

Mr. Wolcott's opposition was met with the assertion that that senator never failed to speak in the interest of a foreign corporadeclamation against those senators who opposed his resolution when the vice president rose, delivered his farewell speech and declared the senate adjourned without debate. Mr. Call was in the full tide of passionate

A Recess Taken.

The senate took a recess at 4:15 o'clock this morning until 9 o'clock, when business was resumed at the latter hour. Six senators were present—two on the democratic side and four on the republican—and there was apparently no business to be attend-

Another recess for a quarter of an hour that way until half-past 9 o'clock, when Mr. Towle, chief clerk of the house, appeared and announced that the speaker had signed the naval bill (the last but one of the appropriation bills) and delivered it to the senate for the signature of the vice presi-

In a moment the vice president announced that he had signed it; and it was immediately returned to the house and was, by the house enrolling committee, carried to the white house for the signature of the

After some ten minutes more passed in silence, it occurred to Mr. Call, of Florida, that this was an apportune time for him to get action on his resolution for an investi-gation as to the doings of the Louisiana or Honduras Lottery Company, and he moved to take it up; but was reminded by Mr. Manderson, republican, of Nebraska, of the unanimous consent of the senate, according to which no business was to be transacted except the signing of bills and action on conference reports until 11 o'clock.
"And at 11 o'clock, what then?" Mr. Call queried.

"At 11 o'clock," said Mr. Harris, democrat, of Tennessee, in his severely dignified style, "it is supposed that the senators will be here and that the senate will do as it

At 9:50 o'clock the last of the appropriation bills, the deficiency, was received with the speaker's signature to it: and it immediately received the signature of the vice president and was returned to the house. In the course of the next hour several other enrolled bills were presented for and received the signature of the vice president. and this was the only sort of business transacted.

The vice president announced his signature of the anti-lottery bill and the bill amending the copyright law so as to limit the liability of publishers. At 10:15 o'clock a resolution was offered by Mr. Voorhees for the appointment of a nmittee of two senators to join a like committee on the part of the house to wait upon the president of the United States and inform him that the two houses, having completed the business of the present session, were ready to adjourn unless the president had some other communication to ed such committee. Morgan and Gray Even Up.

Mr. Gray asked unanimous consent to take up the house bill which, he said, is intended to save from total destruction the fur seal herd, saying that it could be passed without delay or trouble. Mr. Morgan objected, and that objection was conclusive.

The senate passed a concurrent resolution, offered by Mr. Ransom, for the delivery of two pieces of condemned cannon to the First regiment of the North Carolina State Guard.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Morgan instructing the committees on for-eign relations to inquire into the claim of Great Britain, arising out of the fur of Great Britain, arising out of the inseal controversy, was reported back with some modifications from the committee on contingent expenses.

Mr. Gray asked the vice president Mr. Gray asked the vice president whether it required unanimous consent to have that resolution considered now, and, on being told that one objection would car-ry it over for a day, he gromptly objected. Mr. Morgan endeavored to induce Mr. Gray to withdraw his objection, but failed, and Mr. Gray's retaination was complete.

A resolution was passed, declaring that the standing and select committees of the senate, as now constituted, shall be continued until the first Monday in December, 1895, or until the successors be appointed, and that the committee on printing, as it will be constituted in December, 1895, be authorized to six during the recess. authorized to sit during the recess.

Resolutions of thanks to the vice president and to Mr. Martin, president pro teme pore of the senate, for the ability, dignity, courtesy and impartiality with which they had presided over the deliberations of the senate during the present session, were offered by Senators Morrill, republican, of Vermont, and Manderson, republican, of Nebraska, and were unanimously adopted.

Mr. Harris, in acknowledging the compliment, said:

"Senators, your indulgence and kindly aid made the duties of the president protempore easy. Accept my profound thanks for the resolution which you have pliment, said:

agreed to."
Mr. White, democrat, of California, offered a resolution instructing the committee on commerce to visit the Pacific coast during the recess to examine sites for a deep sea harbor there, and Mr. Call tried to get up his Honduras lottery resolution, but Mr. Gorman remonstrated against both and this brought about the scene above described. While Mr. Wolcott was adding his contribution to the controversy and when the fingers of the dial of the clock indi-cated that the life of the fifty-third congress was within a few minutes of its close Senators Voorhees and Sherman took up a position in the main aisle to make their report as a committee to wait upon the president. Mr. Voorhees made the report in these words:

"The committee appointed to wait upon the president of the United States and inform him that the fifty-third congress is ready to adjourn sine die at 12 o'clock has performed that duty. The president said to us that he has no further com-munication to make. He tendered his conratulations to congress at the conclusions of its labors."

There was something pertaining to the humorous in Mr. Voorhees's manner while pronouncing the last sentence, as well as in the words themselves, which provoked an instantaneous and general outburst of laughter, applause and handelapping on the floor and in the galleries, in the midst of which the two senators returned to their respective seats.

In the last moments of the session Mr.

Blackburn was appointed a member of the committee on printing instead of Mr. Ran-som, resigned, and Senators Cockrell, Da-vis, Daniel, Hawley, Gordon, Quay, Berry were appointed a committee on the dedica-tion of the National Military park, at Chickamauga and Chattanooga.

Mr. Call, democrat, of Florida, indulged in some closing remarks upon his Honduras lottery resolution, which was going to fail by the close of congress. Vice President's Farewell.

When he came to a pause the vice president rose and addressed his farewell remarks to the senate. He said:
"Senators, the hour has arrived fixed by 'Senators, the hour has arrived fixed by law for the termination of this congress. In the magnitude of the questions determined and the ability with which they have been discussed, the congress just closing have been surpassed by few that have preceded it. Since its organization two senators have retired by resignation, two by expiration of the term for which they were appointed and four have been removed by the hand of death. This hour marks the close of the long and honoramarks the close of the long and honora-ble terms of service of senators who will main of history. It only remains to make the official announcement that the senate stands adjourned without day."

As he uttered these last words the vice president let the gavel fall and the session closed. The vice president remained in the chamber of the coverage polyntheses. in the chamber for several minutes, exchanging words of farewell with sena of whom eighteen laid down their offices to day, a much larger number than is unual at the close of a congress. #### IRISH LAND BILL. John Moreley Introduces It in the London, aMrch 4.-In the house of commons today Mr. Sydney Buxton, under col-onial secretary, stated that the commercial treaty between France and Canada had not yet been ratified owing to a defect in the act of the Canadian parliament, confirming the treaty, but he hoped that as soon as the Canadian parliament should meet, the treaty would be ratified without delay John Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, introduced the Irish land bill. In his re-marks introducing the measure. Mr. Mor-ley said he believed that the purchase of holdings was the ultimate solution of the land question in Ireland, but universal compulsory purchase would take more than one generation to effect. In the meantime a modus vivendi must be found. Mr. Morley, continuing, said that the foundation of the bill was the principle of protecting the tenant in the ownership of improvements. Henceforth only the ten-ant would receive the benent of the imant would receive the benefit of the in-provements he had made upon his holding, as the landlord would not be allowed to charge rent for improvements. Fair rents would be fixed every ten years, instead of every fifteen years, as at present. Within the next two years all arrears due, he said, might be recovered, but after the expiration of that time, the landlord could not recover more than we years' rent. The questions in regard to evicted tenants, Mr. Morley said, would be met by re-enacting the thirteenth section of the act of 1891, giv-ing voluntary reinstatement, not-compul-sory, in cases where the present occupants are unwilling to terminate their tenancies. He concluded by saying that the govern-ment had done its best to meet the practi-cal difficulties of one of the thorniest sub-jects in the whole field of medorra-pilitar. jects in the whole field of modern politics. He appealed to all reasonable men to fairly and carefully consider the matter and not lightly throw away the opportunity of placing upon the statute books a just and practical scheme.

The Irish land bill passed the first reading without a division. Speakers of all parties approved its general principle, evidently recognizing it as an able, honest endeavor to settle a vexed question.

Boyal Decorations Made the Scene One of Rare Beauty-Archbishop Corrigan Performs the Ceremony.

New York, March 4.-At high noon today, His Grace Achbishop Corrigan, officiating Miss Anna Gould became Countess de Castellane, and the fortunes of one of America's richest heiresses was linked with a French nobleman of ancient name and proud connections.

The wedding took place at the home of George Jay Gould, Fifth avenue and Sixty-seventh street. The palatial dwelling of the head of the Gould family, with its spacious rooms furnished in oriental splenor, was a fitting place for the ceremony, which could not be held in the cathedral. Owing to the fact that the bride is a protestant, the canons of the church of Rome prescribe baptism in that faith before the solemnization of the rite of matrimony before the altar of the church.

Miss Gould is a Presbyterian, and while she consented to the Catholic ritual, declined to join that church. A special dispensation was, therefore, obtained and the nuptial mass was omitted from the cere-

Invitations were accordingly limited to relatives and about seventy-five intimate friends, making less than one hundred in all, as the house would not accommodate Decorations in the House The scene within was gorgeous in the extreme. The hall was banked with palms, ferns and potted plants. The East India room, in which the ceremony was performed, the music room opening out of it and the library upstairs were elaborately decorated, the prevailing tone being pink and white American beauty and bridal roses, Japan lilies and lilies of the valley used by the thousands.

At the rear of the hall, palms and exotics were used to transform the recess into a rustic grotto, in which electric lights glowed. The heavy oak paneling of the staircase, covered over with a groundwork of palm foliage and smilax, white Japan lilies and white roses. Over this, garlands of pink and white were draped. From the center of the dome, over the stairway, gar-lands of asparagus plumosa, entwined with white roses and lilies of the valley, were hung like the ribbons of a maypole. The ends of these garlands extended to form a from the foot of the stairs, across the hall, brough the doorway into the music room, reaching the center of which it turned to ended at a raised dais, placed at the front of the room and over which a canopy of royal purple was suspended. White rib-bons, attached to potted plants, enclosed the walks. The circular alcove, formed by the tower at the Fifth avenue corner of the East India room, was a dream of fairyland. It was paneled with lilies of the valley, over which hung garlands of pink and white roses; suspended from the ceiling of the alcove was a mammoth horn of plenty, showering illies upon those beneath.

An orchestra of stringed instruments concealed behind a bank of palms, an organ in the hallway and a quartet, furhished the musical programme.

The guests were all assembled at 11:45

There was a brief delay as the procession was being formed in the library on the second floor. Archbishop Corrigan, and two assistant priests from the cathedral, took their placed on the dais. Grouped about in front of the room were relatives of the bride and the Marquis and Marquise de Castellane, parents of the groom.

Count de Castellane entered from the hallway a moment later with his best man, Count Jean de Castellane. They took positions at the side of the dais. The bridal procession descended the stairs and passed along the floral-canopled floor, and into the East India room in the following order: First came the ushers,

The brides maids took positions in front of them, and Mr. Gould and the bride walked between the two lines until the groom stepped for-ward and took his place at the side of the bride. Mr. Gould remained close at hand and gave his sister away.

Each wore a pin of diamonds and amethysts, the gifts of the bridegroom.

Among the rarest and most costly of the bride's presents was a brooch fashioned in the shape of a heart. In the center was the rare and world-famous Esterhasey diamond surrounded by eleven other diamonds, each of which is large enough to be worn as a single stone. This was the gift of Miss Helen Gould. In the entire collar there were seventy-two, diamonds and 800 pearls, Mr. Frank Gould presented a chain of 200 diamonds, which could be worn in colls about the neck or could be worn in coils about the neck or entwined as a bracelet about the wrist. Mr. Howard Gould gave a large knot of clusters of diamonds. The Marquis and Marquise de Castellane presented to the bride a superb and unique necklace, consiting of five poes of pearls, each string of which has historic interest, one having belonged to Henri Quetre and another to Marie Antoinette. Mr. Wilson was warmly applauded.
Mr. Simpson, of Kansas, spoke for the oppulists, expressing their appreciation of Mr. Crisp's fairness and kindliness, and Mr. Grosvenor, republican, of Ohio, en dorsed all that nad been said. "All in favor of the resolutions will rise and stand until counted," said Mr. Hatch and amid laughter he went through the mock form of counting heads. There were no votes in the negative, of course, and Mr. Hatch declared the resolution carried ov 325 votes. Speaker Crisp ascended the rostrum at this moment and the house and galleries broke into a round of cheers and hand-clapping.

It was some minutes before the applaus sed and then Mr. Hatch had the cierl read the resolutions complimenting the speaker. Replying to these Mr. Crisp spoke as follows: Speaker Crisp's Valedictory. Speaker Crisp's Valedictory.

The Speaker—"Represenatives: I know you will pardon me if, before preforming my last official act, I give some expression to what I feel, not only in regard to the resolution which you have just so kindly adopted, but in respect to the uniform kindness, courtesy and consideration with which I have been treated by every member of this body. Persons who are unacquainted with the methods of procedure here have but little conception of the trials and troubles and the difficulties of legislation in so large a body as this.

and troubles and the difficulties of legislation in so large a body as this.

This is the largest congress that ever assembled in the United States, consisting of 355 members, besides the delegates. These gentlemen are representative men. They represent all the shades of thought and opinion in all parts of the grandest country under the sun, (Applause.) Naturally, and indeed necessarily, under such conditions, at times there is great strife and contest upon the floor for the maintenance of the particular views of individuals and earnest effort for the consideration of particular measures. The difficulties of the presiding officer arise largely from this: That, particular views of individuals and earnest effort for the consideration of particular measures. The difficulties of the presiding officer arise largely from this: That, whereas, there are, perhaps, 14,000 or 15,000 bills introduced in a congress, in the nature of things but a small part of them can have consideration, if all the measures introduced could be considered and acted upon by the house then the duties of the presiding officer and of the members would be rendered much less difficult; but where only a small portion of the measures introduced can be considered, there is necessarily a struggle to determine what those particular measures shall be, and from year to year this difficulty increases.

"The present occupant of the chair—and he feels that in making this expression he but echoes the experience of every one of his predecessors—had no conception of the difficulties incident to the office of speaker. That he has been enabled, in a measure, to discharge the duties of this office to your satisfaction, is most largely due to your kindness, to your constant help.

"We are now about to go to our respective homes. This is the third session of this congress. We have been in session continuously longer perhaps than any congress in the history of the government. We have been surrounded by difficulties and trials, but I am sure I can say not only for this body in the aggregate, but for each member of it, that however we may have failed—whatever our shortcomings may be, we have, according to our earnest convictions, endeavored to do that which was for the best interests off the whole American people, (Applause.)

"Again I thank you, and when I say that I but feebly express my feelings. Never in my life—no matter what may be its future—can I expect to attain to so high an office as that which I owe to your kindness, to your consideration, to your partiality. In laying down that office, the greatest gratification that could be afforded me is the evidence in this resolution that I have discharged the duties of th in the month. The business before the court on a recent Saturday was very uminous and required considerable time in being disposed of. The court consists of an old desk and bench, which stand under an umbrageous pine. Two men named John Hester and Louis Pope had a case in before anybody was aware that trouble was brewing, both men were hitting heavy licks. Over the judicial desk they fought, scattering the Georgia codes in every direction Judge Thigpen ordered them to dosist, but the reprimand was unheeded. The bailiffs stood around and intently watched the fray with delight and so did the spectators and lawyers. It was, indeed, a ludicrous scene. After much persuasion the combatants were separated. Hardly had this been settled before two men named Barfield and Horton entered the fistic arena, and had it not been for timely interference this affair would have terminated tragically. A feud had existed between both for some time engendered by a law suit. Saturday, Horton cursed Barfield, which enraged the latter so that he rushed on Horton with a drawn knife and probably would have cut him severely if outsiders had not separated them.

When everything had reseumed its wont-ed quietness again, it was broken in a short time by another quarrel ensuing between Horton and an old gentleman named Beatty. This was nipped in the bud by the balliffs. The strangest part of the affair is the brawlers escaped paying a fine. Attorneys Howard, Jicks and Walker, ness, saw the scraps from beginning

Statesboro, Ga., March 4.—(Special.)—A sensation has been created here by the conduct of a young married man, who is a small merchant and who has always borne a good reputation, About three weeks ago this young man,

John T. Braddy, hired a horse and buggy from W. T. Smith, and said he was going to Johnson county to look after same cattle. Instead of doing so, he went to Tattnall county, and after remaining in the neighborhood of Hogan, a small town on the Savannah and Western railroad, a few days, was married to a Miss DeLoach, a young woman with a very bad reputation She and her mother are the parties who Alfred Kennedy, about two years ago, Mr. Smith, who lives here and who had hired Braddy the horse and buggy, became uneasy; and finally heard from the postmaster at Hogan that Braddy had been there, but said he was going to leave for New York, Mr. Smith went over to Tattnall, Braddy left his wife and two children here, with whom his neighbors say he had lived happily. It is understood he never met the Miss DeLoach until a few wonths ago, and became infatuated with her, and finally married her as stated. Was the Killing of Jack Amos, Recently. Americus, Ga., March 4.—(Special.)—The coroner's jury, empaneled to investigate the killing of Jack Amos in the seventeenth district Thursday night, found "that he came to his death by the shot of some unknown party." One of the witnesses testi-fied regarding the shooting, saying, howevroad," though it was stated that dogs were put on the trail and followed it to where the dead body lay. There was no evidence going to show that the negro stole the cow or that the shooting was done in self-de-fense. The facts so far as known certain-ly warrant a thorough investigation by the grand jury.

offenses that would probably be dealt with by the grand jury. Throughout his charge he was given the closest attention.

Immediately after hearing the judge's charge, the grand jury retired and began work upon the various cases presented to them. Of the nearly two dozen true bills found the greater portion related to such offenses as gaming and carrying concealed weapons. A number of jail cases were disposed of also through indictments. The criminal superior court begins work on the first Monday in April and all of the work of this grand jury will come up at that time before Judge Clark. The term promises to be one full of hard work. Already two cases have been sent back from the supreme court for another trial and each of these cases will consume the greater portion of the week. One is the case of Adolphus Duncan who was convicted of having criminally assaulted Mrs. M. C. Sanner and sentenced to hang, accordingly: the other is that of Lacewell. who shot Officer Barrett, and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. "SHORE ACRES" TONIGHT.

Tonight and Wednesday night, and Wednesday matinee, at the Grand, will be presented for the first time in Atlanta, Mr. James A. Herne's great play, "Shore It is an American drama of the highest order, a simple tale of New England country life, truthfully, plainly, faithfully told, without the slightest bit of exaggeration to mar its beauty. It is a play that canno but please all. It can be thoroughly appreciated only by those who are acquainted with country life, who have often times seen the parallel of Nathaniel Berry and Joel Gates, who have inhaled the sweed odor of new mown hay and have eaten in acts is a marvel. A sure enough cooking stove is in full blast, pots are simmering, steaming, bubbling, the women are at work preparing a genuine "company" dinner, a real turkey is actually cooked and when the guests sit down to dinner they really eat the meal. The same faithfulness to detail has been observed throughout the entire play, in costuming and in all the properties, and it is this as much as anything else, perhaps, which makes "Shore Acres" the admirable play that it is. Owing to the extreme length of the play the curtain will rise promptly at 8 o'clock for the night performances, and at 2:30 for the metinee.

The New Orlenas Picayune, of February 4th, said of "Shore Acres:"

"At the Grand opera house last night was produced for the first time in New Orleans Mr. James A. Herne's beautiful play called 'Shore Acres,' which made a great hit with the large audience assembled. The play has had extensive runs in the streat cities of the north and east and, therefore, came highly recommended, and the most extravagant expectations of those who attended the performance last night were fully realized. It tells of the simplicity of life on a New England farm, draws clear-cut characters, sparkles with bright lines, abounds in homely pathos and fascinates with its realism. The play is elaborately staged, the lighthouse and storm scenes being particularly effective and it is well played by the entire company."

The Campobello Opera Season. Atlanta's initial subscription opera season will open at the Grand on April 22d. The opera selected for that occasion is "Carmen." In this opera Mme. Rice Rice Moreska, one of the most beautiful women on the operatic stage, will make her first bow to an Atlanta audience. Signor Montegriffo will sing Don Jose, and Signor Campobello, whom no artist approaches in the rendering of the Toreador song, will sing the part of Escamillo. The ensemble of the company numbers sixty, and the management has received already many flattering promises. The indications are that a large subscription will be obtained. The full prospectus will be issued in Sunday's Constitution, as also a handsome picture of Moreske, "la hermosa," as the South American critics have christened Signor Campobello's beautiful prima donna. A SPLENDID CONCERT.

The Concert of the Atlanta Vocal Soclety Largely Attended. concert given last night at the Grand the auspices of the Freyer & Bradley under the auspices of the Freyer & District Music Company was a marked success in every particular, as well in point of attendance as in the excellence of the pro-gramme given. The house was packed from the orchestra chairs to the gallery and the interest of the audience was amply attested by the undivided attention given the numbers as well as by the applause which fol as it was the debut of the Atlanta Voca Society, and the second appearance here of Miss Marie Louise Bailey, a southern girl, whose performance upon the piano shows virtuosity of no mean order and shows virtuosity of no mean order and a rare promise for the future when experience shall have ripened the talent, and supplied the one touch which adds mesmerle power to technical skill.

The programme opened with the "Carnival" of Schumann, which is always a severe test, not only of virtuosity but of physical endurance. Miss Balley played the number throughout, with no perceptible diminution of power and with marked intelligence, though she gave more pleasure in the Chopin group, and in the Hungarian Fantasie by Liszt. It should not be forgotten, however, in making this distinction, that the Chopin and Liszt numbers were more calculated to appeal to an audience not strictly musical, and that in giving the "Carnival" first she labored under the double disadvantage of giving a trying se-had had a chance to get warmed up to the work.

In spite, however, of these disadvantages she won an encore on her first number, which is a rare compliment. The Chopin group consisted of the nocturne in D flat, the etude in C sharp minor, and the scherzo in B flat minor. Miss Bailey's work showed to best advantage in the scherzo, and in the Hungarian "Fantasie," which closed the programme, the latter serving to bring out admirably the rich quality and fine sustaining power of the handsome Conovergrand which she used, which had already sustained the test of the "Carnival" in a thoroughly adequate manner.

Into the scherzo and the nocturne she threw much of the romantic spirit that marks the composer's works, and gave the "Fantasie" with breadth and admirable technical skill. The octave work was especially notable for brilliance and precision, and the bravura work throughout was charg acterized by dash and spirit.

The advent of the Atlanta Vocal Society is an event upon which the citizens of Atlanta should congratulate themselves, since it is a beginning in the right direction and already represents a considerable outlay of patience, perseverence and earnest, palmstaking effort. It would be difficult to overestimate the value of an organization of the kind to the city wheir pace firmly established, and every encodragement should be extended to this society, whose purpose is to create a taste for what is best in choral music.

The work last night was entirely creditabe extended to this society, whose purpose is to create a taste for what is best in chcral music.

The work last night was entirely creditable. The voices are fairly well balanced and sufficient in volume to produce an adequate effect in a house the size of the Grand. The chorus needs to pay more attention to enunciation and shading, but in the main the work shows a good beginning. The hallelujah chorus of Handel and the Tannhauser chorus would be ambitious undertakings for any body of singers, and the director, Mr. A. M. Burbank, is to be congratulated upon the showing made by the organization within the limited time which they have had for rehearsals since the organization last fall.

A very delightful number was the quartet by Mendelssohn, sump by Miss Bessie Service, Mrs. S. M. Burbank, Mr. Brisben and Mr. S. M. Burbank, Mr. Brisben and Mr. S. M. Burbank. "The Lost Chord," given as a chorus for female voices, and the male chorus, "At Sea," by Dudley Buck, were both well done and highly enjoyable. The vocal soloists were Mrs. O'Brien, who sang in a very charming manner De-Koven's Indian love song, and as an encore the graceful gavotte from Mignon, and Mr. Frank Pearson, who won an enthusiastic recall with his bass solo from the Philemon et Baucis of Gomod. Mr. Pearson has not only a voice of releasing quality and resonance; but sings with admirable method and style. His interpretation of the ballad by Wilson G. Smith, which he gave as an encore, was exceedingly tender and graceful.

The accompaniments were played by Mrs. Joseph Maclean and the man Mayor.

The accompaniments were played by Mrs. Joseph Maclean and Mr. Henry Howells. During a pause in the programme Mayor Porter King made a brief address outlining the history and the work of the Atlanta Vocal Society and thanking the audience for its interest and support, and referring in terms of praise to the admirable work ione by the director. Mr. A. M. Burbank, and thanking the Freyer & Bradley Music Company for the courtesies extended the organization.

By that peculiar charm so characteristic n Miss Stevens an audience of cultivated musicians was held in willing abevance for upwards of two hours while the eminent artiste played through a programme of seventeen selections of the best composers past and present. What constitutes the charm of Miss Stevens is her unaffected personality as much as her thorough and faithful interpretations. Her playing was by far the best that has been heard here for some time and the numerous relends and admirers present at the recital last night testified by their spontaneous ap-plause their high appreciation of the popu-lar lady. SILVER IN GEORGIA.

Jonesboro Enterprise: The whole world seems to be alive with apprehension concerning the fluctuation and divergence of the gold and silver values. eGrmany, France and England have proposed a monetary conference to restore bimetallism, and despite the unfriendly views of our goldbug administration, the United States will be forced to co-operate.

ATLANTA, GA., March 5, 1895.

The Proposed International Conference. Before congress adjourned, the bimetallists in that body made preparations to reap whatever advantage the people of this country may be able to reap from the proposed international conference. In the senate three uncompromising silver men were appointed to represent that body. In the house two silver men have been appointed-Speaker Crisp, whose appointment was unanimous, tenresentative Culberson: of Texas. who has voted for silver every time, and resentative Hitt, of Illinois, a conserative goldbug, who will represent the Provision has been made for nine gates. Five of these will be outnd-out silver men-men who are in faof independent action by the United ites. It now remains for the presint to appoint three. If Mr. Cleveland really a bimetallist, as some of his ends vaguely claimed months ago, will appoint three silver men, for if ere is any promise whatever in the national conference, it is absolutely ential that the delegates representing country should be not only unanias, but enthusiastic in behalf of the ete remonetization of silver. This absolutely essential, because only in his way can the United States governat have its full weight and influence n the deliberations of the conference.

her words, if the conference is to held for the purpose of restoring silthe delegation representing the States should be unanimous in half of the restoration of the white netal. Mr. Cleveland, whose affiliaas are entirely with the gold monollists, and whose personal and mcial influence has been employed enly in behalf of the single gold standmay deem it his duty to see that ne gold gamblers are represented. He strengthen the hands of the Britsh delegates, who will be opposed to tallism, by appointing three gold metallists. The president's action n this matter will demonstrate beyond he shadow of a doubt whether he bes in the single gold standard, or is trust he will disappoint our expectations as to his probable action, but such a disappointment would be a very agreeable one.

We regret to observe that the populists in both houses of congress fought the proposition for the appointment of legates to an international conference to the last. This attitude is not a happy one by any means and it will not tend to give the voters of the country any confidence in the professions of those who call themselves populists. The position of The Constitution with respect to an international conference is well known. We do not believe that the proposed conference will come any closer to an agreement than the conferences that have preceded it. We fear that France, Germany and the Latin union will insist on dragging Great Britain into the league and thus make the refusal of that nation decide the whole

And yet, we may be mistaken. There is a possibility, if not a hope, that the conference may do much to advance the cause of bimetallism. While we do not set any great store by it, nevertheless, we think it would be absurd for those who really believe in the remonetization of silver to oppose the proposed conference. We think it would be the nee of folly to shut the United States out of such a conference merely ause the people of this country are favor of taking an independent stand the matter. The populists in congress have clearly eft their motives open to suspicion. Their attitude is not only unreasonable, out cannot be explained on any theory ulated to further the cause of silver etization. If the conference does tantial good, it can do no harm. to be convened on a basis somedifferent from those that have preit. The last conference was calle instance of Mr. Harrison and ers, and was simply a tactical at on the part of the republicans the silver question out of the campaign that was approach-projected conference is the ment instituted in count the discussions will, no doubt, take a wider range. Discussion is what the bimetallists want; the wider the better. There has never been any coherent reply to the arguments of the silver men; there never will be; and the sooner that fact is made apparent to those who have never had the opportunity to study the question for themselves the better it will be for the peo-

The argument of the populists, as we understand it, is that the conference will have a tendency to delay action in this country. This is on the theory that the people are a set of blind and ignorant fools, who, having permitted themselves to be entrapped and enslaved by the money sharks, are now only waiting for an opportunity to formally sign away their own liberties. We do not believe the people are such fools as that. On the contrary, we believe the proposed conference will have the effect of stimulating action in this country. If bimetallism would improve the condition of the little nations of Europe how much more important is it that the people of the United States should confer together at the ballot box and remonetize silver. If there is nothing to be gained by the international conference, there is nothing to be lost. If the European nations are willing to come together and discuss the feasibility of legislating in behalf of silver, they will be much more willing to enter into an agreement when the people of the United States have remonetized it and restored its commercial value by renewing the demand for it at the mints.

The movement in Europe ought to stimulate and increase the energy and enthusiasm of the silver men in this country, and it will have that effect if a few political cranks do not stand in the way.

The People Will Triumph.

General William Booth, of the Salvation Army, has been talking to The New lork World. His theme was the people, their misery, how to rescue them. "I have been disappointed in the American people" he says. He thinks they do not believe in grace, and regard it as no good for backing. They want the backing of the republican party, of the democratic party, or Mr. Cleveland, or somebody else. "It is your ballot box," he says, of which you are so proud, that is to be your undoing unless you wake up to what the situation is. He then sums up the situation

The millionaire is on top now and the great crowd is struggling beneath in mis-ery. They are the sans culottes—the breechless fellows. They see the millionaires having every comfort, while it is as much as they can do to make a living, and the poorhouse at the end when all is done. The next revolution will not be by force. If will be by your ballot box, which the breechless multitude has just begun to learn how to ure.

One day they are going to turn things upside down. They are the man. The mill-ionaires are the few. The millionaires will then be underneath, the breechless multi-It will be well if they stick to voting only

It will be well it they stick to voting only.
It would have been well in the French revolution if they had let the breechless multitude vote at the start.
It would have brought Napoleon nearer by a year or two. Isn't that an important thing to think of? Isn't it better to lose ey-bags than your head? The fact so tersely stated by General Booth, that the millionaire is on top now, is equally plain to the people. He could not, if he wished, exaggerate the completeness with which the millionaire has taken possession of everything in sight. But the "breechless multitude," whose orudence General Booth seems to fear can be trusted. It is composed of the people whose valor made this country free, whose wisdom has built it up, and who require the aid of no "superior class" to tell them what to do. They have not been trained in the French school but in one whose only weapon, the ballot, has turned humbugs out of office heretofore, and which may be relied upon to do it again.

Turkish Outrages. We referred yesterday to the condition of affairs in Turkey so far as it affects American citizens and Christian missionaries. We return to the subject today for the purpose of suggesting that, in all probability, our government has not been placed in possession of certain events of recent occurrence. It is to be feared that the discussions that have arisen in regard to the propriety of removing Consul Jewett has somewhat obscured matters. Otherwise we venture to hope that Mr. Gresham would have deferred all questions regarding the removal of Mr. Jewett to a period when the Armenian outrages are made the subject of a full and complete investigation.

It is true the Sassoun commission is engaged in that business, but the Turkish government is making frantic efforts to prevent the publication of anything from the commission. The unspeakable Turk is not only trying to suppress facts, but is trying to blind the eyes of the United States government by urging that Jewett is an enemy of

The difficulty with Jewett is that he is trying to uphold the dignity of his government by protecting American citizens from the fanaticism of the Moslem population. In 1893, when an emergency warranted it, Mr. Jewett went of his own accord to Marsovan. and, by establishing himself and his flag on the American mission premises, prevented a massacre. Had he failed or delayed action, the American missionaries would have been the first victims. He reported the true state of affairs, and when the Newberry investigation showed the truth of his report, the guilty officials were removed.

For his action in this matter the Turks have never forgiven Jewett. He has been almost boycotted by the governor of Sivas, and has been denounced by Turkish officials as an "enemy." A question of great importance at present is whether Minister Terrell is independ vestigate the truth of any statement that the Turks may make against Mr. Jewett.

Meanwhile the situation is critical enough. In the last week of January, a sergeant of the palace guard stabbed sixteen persons, men, women and chillren. One was killed outright and two others are dead by this time. These people were assassinated because they were Christians. As usual, the Turkish covernment is trying to screen the as sassin. The murdered man was Mr. Stupe, an American.

It will be interesting to see what Mr. Gresham proposes to do-whether he proposes to investigate the Turkish harges against Consul Jewett, or whether he intends to demand reparation for the assassination of an American citizen by an officer of the sultan's palace guard.

The Diversity of Blessings.

"To those whom the Lord loves He sends His blessings in abundance," was he heartfelt exclamation of a very derout lady upon hearing of the good forune of a friend.

These blessings come in varied and nexpected ways, but so long as they ach the family hopper there will be ound no fault upon that score. There is Mrs. Talmage, for instance, who has een blessed by a husband, the elomence of whose tongue brings many ther blessings in its train. Lately a ady died in Brooklyn who added her $13,000 bank account to the list, Mrs. Talmage herself being the recipient.

The donor had relatives, many of shom would have been delighted to have had the blessing directed their way, but their tongues were not as peruasive as that of Dr. Talmage. It is but fair to say, however, that the dead voman, while in life, was so disagreeole that her relatives gave her no comfort, while Mrs. Talmage did, and their interest in their kinswoman was only awakened when her dollars were rought into the probate court. In this example they are not without imitators, or there is hardly a rich man in the vorld who does not shiver when he hears some possible heir remarking upon his failing health.

The Decadence of Families.

The permanence of prominent families undergoing a severe strain in the inited States.

There are in this country communi ties which have been in existence for 300 years, and yet it would be impossible to find any descendants of the promi nent families of the first century, and, ideed, but very few of the second, while those of the present generation might be counted on one's fingers.

There lives no man in whose veins the lood of Washington runs. Perhaps it s best that it is so, for if the decay should have followed in his that overook the families of most others who were prominent with him, it would be pitiable to see a Washington as a drunkard or an imbecile. The Adamses, the Shermans and a few other families have maintained respectability, but the great trend of the sons of prominent men as been downward.

The name of Jefferson Davis is not erpetuated, nor is that of Alexander H. Stephens. Like Washington both names nust stand as closed in history. Even in those families which have been perpetuated, what pitiable samples have een left for inspection.

If fatality follows the families great men, how much more sweeping t has been with the families of rich men. Almost before the founder of the family has retired from active business, he sees his sons gone to the dogs, the creatures of evil habits and rushing headlong into the great abyss. Mean while the office boy in the business house in which this fortune was built Rochelle Solid South: When the United States senate in extra session had the silver purchase bill under consideration with the administration using the whols of its influence and prestige for the repeal, which was fought by a majority of the democratic senators, even to fillbustering the cuckoo papers raised a mighty how! against them, declaring them populists obstructionists, etc. But the other day in the same senate, a free silver bill was before that body, which was sure to pass if a vote could be reached, Mr. Cleveland had his cuckoo senators to obstruct the proceedings by filibustering. What do the cuckoo organs then do? Oh, it is patriotism sublime! When any legislation is favorable to the people it is apopulistic or silver craze; but if it favors the great money king, that is true democracy. Gold monometallism is sound money; sound money is true democracy. Hence, the single gold standard is true democracy, and anything else, in the estimation of the pap suckers, is "sorehead," populist, silver cranks," etc. Poor fellows! they are so thin they must be getting lonesome. up, is destined to control it later on. Time, like the tide, is a great leveler Those who shone last year are begging for alms at the backdoor this year, and thus all danger of an aristocracy based upon birth is impossible.

Gone Into Retirement.

The Boston Herald anxiously inquires: Where is Don Manuel Dickinson these days that he permits the Michigan demo-crats to declare for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the old ratio? It has been some time since the luxuriant side whiskers of Don Manuel were toyed with by the breezes in the federal capital. His continued absence suggests that he must have gone into vinter quarters, where existence is ocasionally enlivened by the arrival of other cuckoos for whom the people have no further use. In the decade from 1870 to 1880

there was a gradual awakening in the great northwest from the bad policies which distinguished the republican party. Under the flag of the greenback party thousands of honest republicans protested against the monetary policy of their party, and demanded an inflation of the currency. It was under this banner that the great states of the orthwest were wrenched from republicanism, and worked up for admission into the ranks of the democracy. Their adhesion to the old party, which they regarded as being responsible for secession and the war, was because they believed it to be the best agency through which to get rid of the control of the money sharks. This had been promised o them in state and national platforms, and it was on this very issue that the present vice president entered congres-

It was in this era, when old leaders were being overthrown, that men like Vilas and Dickinson, seeing which way the wind was blowing, attached themselves to the new movement. This novement they found strong enough to capture the state governments of Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota, and in 1884. that of the United States itself. So far it was the common people and so-called "inflationists" that controlled, and it was as the beneficiaries of this movement that Cleveland, Dickinson and Vilas found it possible to cross their legs under the mahogany council table

THE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE Interesting Suggestions Bearing Upon the Proposed Convocation.

Washington Correspondence New York World. That something will come of a conference thus called there are great hopes. The last two international monetary conferences were called by the United States, this ountry taking the initiative in each case They were failures. As ultra-silver views are supposed to obtain in this country another conference called by the United States would hardly meet with any mor success, notwithstanding the increased favor shown to silver by popular sentimen in England, Germany and France. But if this sentiment abroad becomes strong enough to cause any one of those countries to request an international conference, the es are thought to be far more proising than before that something may be accomplished. Recent Developments Abroad. The recent 'developments in Germany France and England seem to indicate that a decided change in the feeling of these countries towards silver has taken place since the Brussels conference. They appear to show, moreover, that these great financial powers now look with more friendly eyes on the proposition for the remone tization of silver on an international ratio. The silver optimists in both parties in congress hall with satisfaction the agita tion in Europe in favor of an internationa conference, as they believe that it canno fail to bring about an understanding, and in fact, a recognition of the principle of bimetallism. How significant is the fres impetus given to the discussion abroad may be understood by recalling the declarations of the delegates of the three powers at the Brussels conference, which was convened at the invitation of the United States.

Germany, through her delegates, express ed her entire satisfaction with her mone tary system, and declared that she had n intention of modifying its basis. Germany has now taken the initiative in the move-ment for another conference, and judging from the declarations in the reichstag the imperial government has come to realize that silver must be recognized more extensively in the world's monetary transac tions. Such a reopening of the question would scarcely be advocated by Germany if her delegates were not to be given more latitude and power in discussing the propo itions in favor of bimetallism that may be advanced. So restricted were the dele gates at the Brussels conference that they could not take part either in the discus sion or in the vote upon any resolution looking to an international agreement.

Of Great Significance. The obvious change in the attitude of Germany is of great significance. Germany, while nominally on a gold basis, is still one of the largest silver holding ountries in the old world, and the recen disturbances in Europe growing out of the tendency of the several powers to-wards a gold standard are probably responsible for her anxiety at this time. France's interest in the establishment of international bimetallism is well under-stood. The large proportion of silver in her currency and the legislative safeguards she has been compelled to adopt to protect her gold from export are the reasons why that country is ready to join with the other financial powers in fixing an international ratio between gold and silver The delegates of France to the Brussels conference were not bound so rigidly as the representatives of Germany, and in tive part in the proceedings of the con vention. The French delegates, however presented no proposition, but were in-structed to carefully consider the schemes outlined by the United States. This country, having initiated the conference, was looked to by the European countries represented as the one to advance a proposition for international bimetallism. manifested more interest in the satisfac tory solution of the problem than either Germany or England. Spain, Italy, Belgium and Austria were Germany, France and England, and now inclined to endorse any plan acceptable to that the whole question has been in those three countries it may safely be said that the sentiment of all Europe has undergone a most significant change.

The Stumbling Block. England, as has been said, was the stumbling block at Brussels, and were she in the same attitude now she would be certain to embarrass any international agree ment. Since the Brussels conference, how William Houldsworth, who was one of Great Britain's delegates, was moved to declare in the house of commons that a further fall in the level of prices would prove a general disaster, and that nothing short of an international bimetallic agree ment would furnish a permanent solution of the difficulty.

Great Britain, apparently, has comaround to this way of thinking, and the debate and vote in the commo ages the belief entertained by the silver conservatives in this country that the nex conference will result in something more than an interchange of opinions.

The attitude on the part of Great Britain is the most hopeful sign that has yet de veloped, and it is this that has impressed President Cleveland so strongly as foreshadowing favorable results from anothe conference.

Ambitions Watcher The growth of sentiment abroad in favor of bimetallism is being watched with the keenest interest by the leaders of the great political parties in this country. If the silver problem were to be solved by international agreement, there are many presidential aspirants whose minds would be considerably relieved. The silver question is bound to be one of the chief issue in the campaign of 1896, and both partie are maneuvering to avoid the endorsement of an out-and-out free coinage plan. It is not surprising that the hopes of the great political leaders are centered in conference which might accomplish much towards clearing the political atmosphere in this country. No one questions that, if left undecided, the silver problem will threaten the harmony of the two represen tative political parties. The repeal of the Sherman law, with its incidental factional strife in the democratic party in congress followed by the demand of the presiden for gold bonds, for the retirement of green backs and treasury notes, has divided the majority in this congress into almost ir-reconcilable camps. The great majority of the democratic party has stood steadfast in favor of the recognition of silver, and it is well understood that its future promience in national affairs will hinge upon the ability of its leaders to conciliate the silver element in its ranks. President Cleveland realizes this as much as any one, and, with an eye to the future, he appreciates the possibilities of an inter-national conference in the line of taking the disturbing question out of politics.

Democratic Discord. The split in the democratic party over silver is perhaps more serious than ha been supposed from surface indications. The silver following has divided into radical and conservative camps, and the former are openly advocating the organization o a new party with the free coinage of silve as its creed. Bland, Bryan and other dis affected representatives who were defeated in the recent election attribute their retirement to the course of the party on the silver question, and they are hatching a new ce between the advocates of the white metal in the republican, democratic and populist parties in the west and southwest These two sections of the country are th strongholds of silver. The southwest hesi tates to leave her old mooring in the demo cratic party, and as democracy means more to that section than silver, it is hard to imagine that the revolt will extend to any serious limits. Republicanism in the south is indissolubly allied with the race tion and with the power of the colquestion and with the power of the col-ored vote, and democracy means white control. The west, therefore, is the only section in which the radicals can hope to secure any great footing.

It is no secret that Bland, Bryan and the rest believe that there is a great opportunity for missionary work in the republican party in that section. But the real leaders of the silver movement do not take a very serious view of the radical enterprise of Bland and Bryan. Men like Teller and Wolcott in the republican party and Morgan and Cockrell in the democratic party, believe firmly that the recognition of silver can be better accomplished within the lines of the two parties as they are now established. It Will Not Down.

There is no doubt that both political parties in the platforms of their next national conventions will be forced to parties in the piatorms will be forced to make some straightout declarations on the silver question. If a monetary conference be not called in the meantime both parties are certain to be confronted with a problem that may involve a future rearrangement of political organizations in this country. If a monetary conference were to reach an agreement the situation would be much simplified; if it were to result in failure the difficulties in the way of preserving old party lines would be greatly increased. In the latter event the silver question would certainly be one of the chief issues in the next presidential campaign.

With a future so ominous in its posibilities it is not surprising that both parties look to a monetary conference with so much hope. The Griffin Call was handed a memoranda book kept by a clerk in a leading grocery and dry goods store of Griffin in 1872 and the charges then made for most articles of prime necessity, are interesting. The prices paid for cotton in 1872 were about three times that of 1894-96, while the prices paid for goods were often four to eight times in excess of what they are sold for now. Flour in 1872 was worth $12.50 to 183 per barrel, sugar 16% cents per pound, sait $2.50 per sack, one pair traces $1.25, nails 12% cents per pound, soda 20 cents per pound, rice 15 cents, and so on through the list. Dry goods have declined even more than the articles mentioned. Goods that now sell for 8 to 20 cents then brought from 40 to 90 cents.

Of the republican congress the country has very little to fear at least for two years yet to come, unless it be, perhaps, the coalition with Cleveland and the gold sharks. At any rate the die has been cast and the people have decided that the republicans should have the majority. In two years the tide of popular opinion will change again and the democratic party will be carried back into power, there to remain until another democratic president sees fit to use his high office to further the claims of english and Wall street money grabbers.

the story told by an Atlanta traveling man. "It was the day railrads, "I took things leisurely," said he, "very carefully observing business and industrial conditions, I find that Mexico has prospered during the past two years, when business conditions in our country have been clogged where they have not been actually going backward. Cotton in Mexico is selling at 18½ a pound in silver, which is equal to 8½ cents in our money. I paid $7.50 in silver for a suite of rooms, which in this country would have cost $10 in gold. A suit of clothes, a pair of gloves, a hat, or any item of domestic necessity sells in Mexico for approximately the same amount in silver that we are required to pay here in gold. In other words, about half as cheap. This establishes very clearly to my mind the absurdity of the argument about silver being a depreciating currency. A silver dollar in Mexico will do what is done by a gold dollar in this country, and it has been the appreciation of gold and not the depreciation of silver which has brought about the disparity. I found the factories running on full time and a cotton factory at Orizba capitalized at $3,500,000 was paying from 20 to 25 per cent dividends. The peorelircads.

When Miss Lula Thomas, whose peculiar love story was told in Monday's Constitution, was arrested and brought to police headquarters, Inspector Jones could not be found to sign the warrant against her which charged that she used the United States mails for fradulent purposes.

In his absence Postmaster Fox was called upon and it became his duty to attach his signature to the paper which called for the arrest of the young woman. "I'll have to do it," quoth the joily post master, as he took up the pen from Chief

It Is Explained to Her.

It was explained to the young lady that Mr. Louis Simpson, who was a traveling salesman for a New York house, had re-quested her capture through the chief of police of New Orleans, on the charge that she had used the mails for fradulent purposes. The position of the drummer, it was explained, was that she had, with the intention of swindling him, ingratiated herself into his affections, promised to marry seir into his anections, promised to marry him and under those conditions demanded money which had been given her and which she had used. She had refused to marry him and he had concluded that instead of being in earnest that she had worked him for a pretty big sucker.
"Oh, that's really absurd," said Miss Thomas, when she had heard the case. "He's crazy. That's all."

GEORGIA'S DISPLAY.

A Conference of the State Educational Committee Yesterday.

VIEWS OF WELL KNOWN EDITORS

Prefessor J. H. Chapel, Commissioner Glenn, Dr. H. C. White and Dr. I. S.

If the spirit evinced by the educational committee at the state capitol yesterday morning is significant of the success to which the plans of the exposition commission will be carried, the meager appropriation of $17,500 made by the legislature for state exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition will not be such a small affair after all.

The resources of the state, including the departments represented under the great lome, will be advertisd to the full extent of the appropriation and the sum of money appropriated for this purpose will be divided in such a way as to accomplish the greatest amount of good. A meeting of the commission will be held early in the week and the manner of division will be agreed upon at that time, The people of Georgia have enough sonfidence in the wisdom and ability of the commission to know that the money will be fairly divided and that after this division is made the amount that each department gets will be applied to its legitimate use without extravagance.

Leading Educators Speak. The meeting yesterday morning was in the nature of a conference held by the members of the educational committee. The purpose of the meeting was to hear from several invited speakers, representing the educational institutions of the state and to submit a report to the commission recommending certain features for the state exhibit, in addition to a fair esti-, mate as to the division of the sum appropriated. In the absence of Governor Atkinson, the chairman of the commission and the ex-officio chairman of the educational com-officio chairman of the educational com-mittee, the meeting was called to order by Commissioner Nesbitt.

It was held in the commissioner's office at the state capitol and among those pres-ent who took a conspicuous part in the proceedings were Dr. H. C. White, of the State university; Professor J. H. Chapel, of the Giris' Normal and Industria school at Milledgeville; State School Com-missioner Glenn, who represented the commissioner Gienn, who represented the com-mon schools of the state, and Dr. I. S. Hopkins, of the Technological school. Clear and logical talks were made by each of the speakers who addressed themselves to the special topic upon considera-tion. They impressed the board with the fact that having accepted their invitation they had come prepared to discuss the educational feature of the state exhibit from the standpoint of men who kne whereof they were speaking.

For the Normal School Girls.

Professor Chapel, of the Girls' Normal and Industrial school, was the first speaker to address the committee in be-half of a good educational exhibit. He deplored the fact that a larger sum of money had not been appropriated, but thought, under the circumstances, that by taking a proper degree of pride in the exhibit a worthy display of Georgia's edu-cational facilities could be made. Profescational facilities could be made. Professor Chapel enlarged upon the work of the Normal school and displayed considerable enthusiasm in urging upon the committee the necessity of having this institution well represented in the state exhibit. He took the position that Georgia could not afford to slight this institution which had already, during the brief period of its existence, conferred a lasting benefit upon the state. Professor Chapel spoke at length and stated he wanted all the departments of the school represented in order to show the people of the state who should visit the exposition exactly what the school was doing and what had been accomplished.

Commissioner Glenn's Talk.

Commissioner Glenn's Talk.

Commissioner Glenn's Talk.

In behalf of the common school system Commissioner Glenn addressed the committee. He clearly demonstrated the fact that, during his brief connection with the office, he had thoroughly mastered the situation and was perfectly familiar with the work of the common schools in Georgia. He explained the difficulties in the way of these schools and showed that, in spite of these difficulties, a wonderful degree of progress had been attained. There was not a child in the state who was denied the privileges of the schoolhouse, and the system was as thorough as the limited appropriation for that purpose could possibly make it. He thought the people of Georgia should know exactly the status of the make it. He thought the people of Georgia should know exactly the status of the common schools and for this purpose he urged that a sufficient sum of money be set aside by the commission. The speech of the commissioner was brief, concise and to the point, and it was evident that his views were received by the committee with learn entractical times.

keen appreciation. Dr. White for the University.

Dr. H. C. White spoke for the State university. He made a strong plea for that institution, and urged that the university of the state should be represented by all means in the state's exhibit. He reviewed means in the state's exhibit. He reviewed the work of the university, in its various departments, showing the several branches of instruction taught and the progress attained by that institution during the past few years. He thought the university was fairly entitled to a good representation and stated that a splendld exhibit would be made by the students of the university in the event the efforts of the institution were not hampered by a too meager slice of the appropriation. Dr. White referred to the magnitude of the fair, and also to the need of making such an exhibit as might impress the visitors to the exposition with the degree of progress attained by the state in educational lines.

And the Techs, Too. Dr. White was followed by Dr. I. S. Hopkins, the president of the Technological school, and one of the leading branches of the State university. His views were clearly put and were urged in a manne that fully demonstrated the zeal of the speaker. He spoke of the need of educa-ting the young men of the state in practical lines and of turning out skilled mechanics, capable of filling responsible positions. The development of the material resources of the state that called for the establishment

FATE OF FELTMAN.

The Murderer of Marshal Hardy to Be Put-on Trial.

TO BE CARRIED TO NEWNAN TODAY

He Is Confident and Says That When Everything Is Known That He Will Be Acquitted.

John Feltman, the young man from Coweta, whose pistol put an end to the life of Marshal Hardy, of Newnan, will be taken from Fulton county jail today, where he has been confined since November, and carried out for trial.

The superior court of Coweta is in ses sion, and the fate of the good-looking young murderer will possibly be decided this week. There are those who say that Feltman will be convicted beyond question, but in spite of what appears to be the conclusive evidence against him, the young man has lost none of his cheerfulnss, and talks about the result of his trial, confident that acquittal will come.

The circumstances leading up to the arrest of Feltman were queer. Just a year before the day he was caught at Macon by Captain Thompson and Sergeant White, of the Atlanta force, Feltman drove into Newman, where he was well known and begrean nan, where he was well known, and began to get in shape for his Saturday afternoon jag, Among the crowd of boys who in all country towns are a menace to the community, and who delight to terrorize the most timorous class of inhabitants with deeds of daring and strong feats, Feltman was acknowledged to be the leader, and when in the dead hour of night the sleeping pop-ulace heard the clamor and the screams from this band of rovers they quaked with fear lest injury might befall them or their

John Feltman was always at the head. He was considered a jolly, thoughtless, reckless young fellow, but not until after the affair with the marshal was it known the affair with the marshal was it known that he was a dangerous character. Feltman, some time before, had had trouble with Hrdy, and when, the aftermoon of the tragedy, the officer attempted to arrest him it angered him beyond reason. His potations had been abundant, and when Marshal Hardy sow the young man his conduct was of such a nature that it called for immediate arrest.

Feitman refused to accompany the marshal to the lock-up at first. He was induced by friends, however, to go without further resistance, and had nearly reached the place when he turned and declared that he would go no further.

There was a brief struggle, and before crowd could rush in Feltman jerked his pistol and poured a volley into the body of the officer. Hardy fell over a dead

There was no effort made to delay or cap The excitement, when the facts of the killing became known, was great, and re-wards were offered by the city council, by private subscription and by the governor for the arrest of Feltman. For some cause, although it was know that he was in hiding not far from the home of his parents, there was no one who seemed desirous of taking him. It was said that in his hide-out he was thoroughly protected and from his retreat in the sewamps could kill a dozen men before they coulu reach him. Captured in Macon.

Now, it happened that Feltman was captured in Macon. He was captured by At-lanta officers, and had just stepped from his train when caught.

Captain Thompson did not think it necessary to ask for a force of six men to meet the train. White was all the force he wished. When it became known to Chlef Connolly that Feltman was preparing to get out of Georgia he ascertained what train he would leave on and sent out from Atlanta Captain Thompson and Sergeant White to make the capture. The officers spotted Feltman as soon as he boarded the car, but waited until the train arrived at Macon before showing him the nuzzles of their guns. He was brought to Atlanta, where, in view of the intense ex-citement at Newnan, it was thought best he should be kept until his trial. So he was placed in Fulton county jail, What the Murderer Says.

The appointment of a commission to represent the United States at a conference if called by any of the European powers, probably would have more effect if the appointees by the senate and congress were less pronounced in their views in favor of silver. The stock market opened firm, but at the advance seiling orders from London were encountered and prices dropped ¼ to 2 per cent. Reading and General Electric being especially weak for reasons already referred to. Speculation after the decane noted ruled rather quiet until the last hour, when there was a snarp turn for the better. Sugar started the upward movement, rising from 31½ to 33%, brokers alleged to be acting for insiders having called in stock loaned on the street. At the same time, it was intimated that the regular dividend will be declared shortly, now that congress is out of the way. Louisville and Nashville railled from 4½ to 42% on Chicago davices that the new franchises granted by the alderment to rival concerns will be vetoed. General Electric recovered from 25% to 274ga27. Dow, Jones News Company by private wire to J. C. Knox, manager: It is doubtful whether the bear party obtained as much stock Saturday as might have been supposed from the magnitude of dealings.

The presence of ex-President Greenhut in this city among his brokers is attracting a good deal of attention on the supposition that he represents a large short interest.

Transactions in Sugar were moderate in volume and apparently chiefly by traders. It was said there was a short interest which had become uneasy on account of the recent strength of the stock and had determined to cover before the next dividend had to be paid. Dividend rumors were as usual conflicting. It was very conflicting.

the recent strength of the stock and had determined to cover before the next dividend had to be paid. Dividend rumors were as usual conflicting. It was very confidently declared that the dividend would be 3 per cent, also that is would be 2 per cent. The facts undoubtedly are that not even the Havemeyers know at present what the dividend will be.

Louisville and Nashville broke Saturday on sales by Hatch Bros., Kirkner and London brokers. It was considered partly for a short account and partly London liquidation. Cables said there was more disposition abroad to sell Louisville and Nashville than there has been for a long time. Insiders here took rather the opposite view. cabling and saying that the Louisville and Nashville situation promised to improverather than get worse and that speculatively the stock had declined enough to justify moderate buying on scale.

St. Paul sold Saturday lower than before the panic in 1893. The selling Saturday started with London and was helped by Mr. Dumont. The principal buying was by Sands & Co., 1,500, and Mr. Savin, who resumed operations apparently under an old scale order. He bought about 1,000 shares on the decline. The selling led to a belief that insiders' outlook for earnings was not very favorable. London cables said selling there was on the belief that there would be no dividend, but this view was not shared by those likely to be well informed. They said the probabilities favored a dividend of 1 per cent.

During the latter part of the last week the selling of London arbitrage stocks became quite pronounced and started numerous lnauirles as to the source of the selling operators in "Kaffir" market, who had been conspictous in the American market a few years ago. But that did not explain the persistent selling not to each

Financial Gossip

Liquidation has resulted in lower prices generally for some prominent stocks in the lowest prices quoted in over a year. The market inroughout January and February struggied lurtively against conditions which,

The high priced stocks, the trunk lines and coalers are the last to yield, because a sort of halo has enveloped them that led their owners to believe that somehow these particular properties would be exempt from effects which have caused such general depression. That halo is now disappearing before hard, cold facts, chiefly the inability to earn present rates of dividends.

Disappointing developments in trade constitutions of the constitution of the constitution

Earnings tell about the same story as clearings do. In the third week in February sixty-six roads increased less than 1 per cent over the poor record of a year ago. The features to these weekly statements were material losses by the southern roads, due in part to the bad weather, but primarily to the general depression in business, more especially in the cotton and iron industries, and the abnormally low prices for the latter products.

Grain tonnage at the west was a little larger, but the failure of the corn crop is severely felt both in that territory and in the east by trunk lines, as denoted by the rather startling fact that in the month of January those lines brought to this city 7,50,000 bushels less grain and flour than in the corresponding week of 184. Which stands for a pretty large shrinkage in January revenues.

ceding, and 115,000 a yerr ago. Exports since September 1st foot up 5.15,69.00 bales, an increase over the corresponding period last year of 1.048,000. Fo.'t recepts for the week at 238,000 bales compared with 32,000 week before last, (8,600 a year ago, and 120,000 in 1892, the great crop year. Since September 1st receipts foot up 6,736,000 bales, against 5.237,000 in 1994, ar. 16,193,000 in 1852. Acute depression in some of the railway shares and a moderate advance in certain industrials, notably Sugar and Distilling, were the notable features to Saturday's market. Louisville, on London selling, declined about 2 points; St. Paul, 1. In both cases bad earmings were among the selling dividend prospects have their weight.
Exchange was very strong throughout the week and gold would have been exported naturally had it not been kept here ported naturally had it hot been kept in artificially, that is by the operations of the bond syndicate which supplied the deman-for bills. Nevertheless actual rates closed

New York, March 4.—It was the same old story—an attempt to put prices up, followed by a reaction, showing that efforts to raise prices are a good deal like a man trying to raise himself by his own boot straps.

Prices advanced 4 to 6 points and then came down to within 1 point of the closing figures of Saturday. The market ended steady, with sales of 121,700. Liverpool advanced 1-22d on spot with sales of 10,000.

Futures advanced 1½ to 2 points and closed quiet and steady. Manchester presented nothing striking. The Bombay receipts for the half week were 14,000 against 33,000 for the same time last year, the ports received 21,281 against 26,394 this day last week and 1,3i5 last wear, or thus far this week, 41,944 against 41,553 for the same time last year.

Houston receipts today were 3,132 against 6,23 this day last week, and 1,550 last year;

St. Louis, 504 against 564 last week and 156 last year; Memphis 1,121 against 1,407 last week, and 390 last year; Augusta 415 against 27 last week, and 202 last year; New Orleans advanced 4 points and lost none of this. Savannah, Norfolk and Augusta advancer 1-16c. Elsewhere in the southern market quotations were steady to firm at unchanged prices. New Orleans spot was more active with sales of 8,000 bales. Receipts tomorrow are estimated at 10,000 to 12,000 against 12,176 last week and 6,812 last year. Memphis sold 2,000 bales and St.
Louis 1,355. The signal service predicts a cold wave within the next twenty-four hours for Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, but warmer weather for eastern Texas. The exports from ports were 23,000, mostly to the continent. Spot cotton here was steady, quiet and unshanged; 310 bales were sold for spinning and 2,000 were delivered on contracts. The English advance here was due to nervousness among some of the shorts, an advance in Liverpool and buying by a leading operator. Later on, when it was found that the estimated receipts at New Orleans today and also at interior towns was large, many of the buils became disquieted and let go, some of the the prominent buyers early in the day selling later on. The adjournment of chargess today caused some covering of shorts as it relegates Mr. Hatch to private life, but large receipts and the lack of sustained buying for long account more than counterbalanced this fact. There was a rise in Liverpool on the argument that the price is so cheap that it discounts a big crop and everything else that can be said against the market. The tone was tired toward the close. The ports are expected to get this week at least 125,000 bales and some say- a good deal more, against 69,025 for this week last year, and only 94,218 this week in 1892. You can't make a buil market without strong buil arguments.

A Phenomenal Decrease. From The Wall Street Journal.

The compilation of earnings for the calendar year 1894 has brought the number reporting up to 251 roads, operating about 100,000 out of the 180,000 miles forming the total railway mileage of the country. The gross earnings of these roads in 1893 were about $1,219,000,000, and in 1894, $1,085,000,000.

The total increase amounted to $2,171,165, while the total decreases footed up $155,906,-167, a net decrease of $133,735,002. The largest increase during the year was $762,829, shown by the Florida Central and Peninsular. The largest decreases, including those the amount of which exceeded $2,000,-000, follow: Pennsylvania system, $12,754,499, Atchison, $7,965,966; Burlington and Quincy, $6,841,606; Reading, $6,083,825; Lackawanna, $5,732,111; St. Paul, $5,386,656; New York Central, $4,915,683, Erle, $4,888,272; Northwest, partly estimated, $4,680,638; Union Pacific, $4,670,006; Lake Shore, $4,160,388; Illinois Central, $3,695,638; Baltimore and Ohio, $2,485,892; Michigan Central, $2,06,725; Delaware and Hudson, $2,207,671; Northern Pacific $2,443,128; Canadian Pacific, $2,210,148; Jersey Central, $2,368,015; Wabash, $2,125838. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, March 4,—(Special.)—The better feeling which ruled the cotton market at the close of last week was more pronounced this morning. The Liverpool report was rather encouraging and May opened at 5.5i, but it soon became apparent that there was no disposition to sell cotton and prices steadily hardened until May had sold at 5.60. Just then the announcement of heavy receipts at New Orleans tomorrow and a rumor that Houston would also show a larger movement than had been expected caused free sellings to realize profits. Under the pressure of offerings prices yielded about five points from the highest. The close was steady with 5.55 bid for May. The bears are more wary than ever about selling cotton short at the ruling prices, but the fluctuations in the immediate future will probably continue to depend upon the receipts.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, March 4.—Summary Hubbard Price & Co's, cotton letter: The improvement in Liverpool today was about equal to our advance of Saturday and the market opened without material change from the quotations of that day, but the temper of the market has apparently understore the company and the local trades. temper of the market has apparently undergone some change and the local trades have been open buyers during the day, advancing the market some five points on a demand to cover contracts. This demand has been met at the advance by outside long interest who bought on the decline and are willing to take small profits until they see whether the improvement is likely to be maintained. The market closes barely steady at the lowest prices of the day, the decline being due to the lack of support to the market from commission houses after the local operators had bought the necessary amount of cotton which they required. Receipts promise to be heavy and unless the foreign markets maintain the improvement of today it is likely that the present advance will not be sustained.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

The Strength in Wheat Was Sustain-Chicago, March 4.—Wheat fluctuated at a higher range today than for some time past. The strength was well sustained from the opening until the final trades were made. The bulls, however, were not satisfied with witnessed in a long time.—Boston Journal.

The gain that was made, the feeling being that with the news received, a better showing should have been made. There was a decrease of 715,000 bushels in the visible supply, although a larger reduction was expected, a decrease in northwestern elevator stocks of 1,100,000 bushels and of 544,000 bushels in the English visible supply. The amount on ocean passage increased $00,000 bushels. The Prairie Farmer (Thomas) figures on the amount still in the farmers hands, 165,000,000 bushels, was discredited by some people, while others viewed the matter as not improbable. There was considerable selling of short wheat, one professional putting out quite a line. A comparison of visible stocks at the present time with those of the corresponding week of 1833—the year that Cudahy attempted to corner the market—shows that they are 237,000 bushels less now than then. May wheat opened from 54% to 54%c, advanced to 5505%c, closing at 54%c—%c higher than Saturday. Cash wheat was firm and ½c per bushel higher.

Corn—It was very dull in corn today. The changes kept within close boundaries, prices not being affected a great deal by the bulging tendency of wheat. Speculators finding prompter action in wheat, were disposed to neglect this grain, the desertion being prominent. The visible supply showed an increase of 707,000 bushels and the amount on ocean passage was 80,000 bushels ments, 72,404 bushels.

Oats clung to one quotation with marked tenacity today, rarely getting much higher or lower. The inactivity of corn was reflected here, the close showing a fractional loss from Saturday for May. The visible supply decreased 186,000 bushels. Cash oats were firm at Saturday's prices.

Provisions—Products were not for sale with any degree of liberality today, and the with any degree of liberality today, and the decreased 188,000 bushels. Cash oats were firm at Saturday's prices.

Provisions—Products were not for sale with any degree of liberality today, and the scalpers, by bidding freely, with doubtful desire to buy, succeeded in establishing some advance in prices. There was an irregular tone to the live hog market, so that the influence usually derived from that quarter was lacking. The close was 17½00 20c higher than Saturday for May pork, 600% higher for May lard and 7½c higher for May lard and 7½c higher for May lard and 7½c higher for May ribs. Domestic markets were stronger.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Chicago, March 4.—In Washington everything appeared to favor the long side. Cables came in firm and higher. The French stocks of wheat and flour are very low, being given at 4,600,000 February 1st, against 19,500,000 the same period last year. United Kingdom, February 1st, 18,000,000, against 25,000,000 the year previous. The market has ruled strong and active advancing %c from Saturday's close, but did not respond as much as the news would seem to warract. Foreigners were buyers, both in this market and at the seaboard. New York reports the best demand from abroad for a long while. Advices from Minneapolis indicate flour productions in increase and that receipts will soon fall off some. There is some wheat now being loaded out of country elevators and as soon as that en route is received the movement will stop for awhile. The visible supply statement, showing a decrease of 715,000 bushels, was somewhat of a disappointment to the trade and some realizing sales took place, but without breaking the market any, it being well sustained up to the close. The English visible supply decrease of 600,000 was offset by an increase of 800,000 on passage. Corn has ruled firm and higher with transactions largely of a local nature. Receipts were fully up to the estimate. The visible supply showed an increase of 70,000 bushels and a slightly weakening effect, but as wheat held firm the cereal sympathized and the close was at near the high point. Hog product, like grain, has ruled higher, but somewhat dull, the only feature of note being purchases of 5,000 tierses of lard by a noted private wire house, supposed to be for Cudahy. Receipts of hogs were 10,000 over the estimate and have ruled moderately active with best grades steady, others 5c lower. Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

A communication from the board of trus-tees of the Grady hospital, naming three citizens to succeed Messrs. John T. Glenn, R. D. Spalding and T. B. Neal as members of that board, which privilege is given the board by a section of the city charter, was ead and adopted. The board named Colonel W. A. Hemphill, Dr. R. D. Spalding and Mr. George S. seventh. Dr. George M. Campbell A communication from the mayor appointing Mr. G. W. Beavers public weigher for the north side, and Mr. George E. Price as public weigher for the south side, was read and adopted by the council.

The petition of E. A. Freese for a beer license on Marietta street, which was adopted by the council at its last meeting, was returned by Mayor King without his approval. The veto was occasioned by an irregularity, the petition not having gone to the police committee for consideration before its adoption by the council. A Word from the Mayor.

Mayor King sent in a communication calling attention to a provision of the city charter which prohibited the expenditure by any of the different departments of the city government of more than a proportion-ale amount of the annual appropriation to that department. The object sought to be rained was to keep the departments within the limits of the appropriations and to make a deficiency impossible. It seems that several of the departments have already expended a large part of their annual appropriation, and Mayor King and the finance committee will endeavor to have the practice discontinued. Mayor King's communication was read

"Atlanta, Ga., March 4, 1895 .- To the Honof the bills presented and paid by warrants from this omce, each oil, of course, being approved by the chairman of a proper committee or department, and after discussion of the matter with the finance committee, I find that some of these committees and departments have expended during the last two months, much more than a proportionate part of the funds appropriated to them. and that some of these committees and departments have expended during the last two months, much more than a proportionate part of the funds appropriated to them for the year. As it is our purpose and intention to live within the income of the city, and to carry out the provisions of the charter on this subject, which are perfectly plain, I deem it proper to call your attention to the matter and to recommend that such steps be taken at this early period as will impress upon the chairman of every committee and department the necessity of so regulating their expenditures as that the funds appropriated will carry it through the entire year. There is no likelihood of any ability for an increase of appropriation to any of the departments under the June appointment, as I am advised by the comptroller, and matters should be now so conducted as that the present appropriations will carry every department through the entire year. I cannot make the matter any plainer, or more emphatic than by quoting from the city charter on the subject, viz. 'No money shall be appropriated from the city treasury, except by resolution of the council and aldermen, as herein provided, which shall be void unless it specifies upon the fact out of the manual appropriation sheets) it is drawn; and the mayor and members of the council and aldermen shall be individually liable to the city for the refunding of any amounts appropriated or expenses incurred in excess of said limits, when present the voting of the same, except such of them as escape said liability by calling the yeas and nays, and voting in the negative, and the name entered on the minutes, the amount thereof to be recovered in an action brought in any of the council, for the said sum may be recovered of him and his bondsmen at the suit of any citizen, and ho action brought under this section, or right of action, shall be, settled without the consent of the judge before whom such suit is pending, upon exhibit of all the facts and such consent entered on the minutes.

"I believe it is only necessary to call attention to this matter to guarantee the fact that no department will exceed its appropriation, and that all will so regulate their expenditures as to insure a continuance of their work during the year. Yours very respectfully, PORTER KING. "Mayor."

Hope assessor to represent Mrs. Sarah E. Gabbett, in a matter of damages to ber property, was adopted on motion of Mr.

pany why the petition should not be grant-ed, and was as follows:

things stated that it was in position to build a line into this property (meaning the old waterworks property), which will be more direct and in every way a better line for the development of the property than the one proposed. This company is still of the opinion, and desires now to still of this opinion, and desires now to call your attention to the proposition which follows below, and to certain reasons why it believes you should treat it fatollows below, and to certain reasons why it believes you should treat it favorably,

"If the city will waive that portion of its contract with the Hale Investment Company requiring it to build and operate an electric road from the old waterworks property to the city, and decline to grant a franchise to the Atlanta Electric Railway Company, along the streets of the city paralleling and crossing the lines of this company, and the Hale Investment Company will in good faith carry out its contract with the city to develop the old waterworks property as an attractive pleasure resort, this company will supply the demand for transportation between the city and said property as follows:

"This company will commence at once, and have completed by the 15th day of June, 1896, an extension of either its Capitol avenue or Pryor street lines, directly, by the most practical route, to the old waterworks property, it to select the one which it will find most practicable, and will given such extension from said property into the city a better service than one car each way every hour during thirteen hours of each day, as is required in the lease contract with the Hale Investment Company.

"This company claims to be in a better position to give good street railway service to the old waterworks property for the development of the same than any other line that can be built, and claims that if this proposition is accepted it will be worth $25,000 more to the city's property to be approached by a direct cross-town line on the most prominent streets of the city than by the line now proposed by the Hale Investment Company, which approaches the proposed ex-running through almost any suburoan property where donations can be secured.

"We are satisfied that the proposed extension by this company will not pay for several years; yet the company is willing to make the investment, without any immediate return thereon, rather than have its lines within the city, which are now being run at a loss, paralleled and being placed in the attitude of opposing any enterprise that would possibly add to the value of the city's property.

"Your attention is called to the fact that other street railway lines in Atlanta, which seemed to have fair prospects of success when begun, have, from one cause and another, failed of success, and what is to be their future depends very much upon the chances of finding persons willing to put money into corporations now insolvent. Now, can your body fail to appreciate the fact that this company is one of great strength, backed as it is by the money and influence of many of the most prominent citizens of Atlanta?

"Many things ought to be considered by your body in dealing with these franchises. The city has absolute control as to what streets shall have railways upon them. This control is given to be exercised wisely for the benefit of everyboay concerned—individuals and corporations. The city is a subordinate part of the state governed-individuals and corporations. The city is a subordinate part of the state govern ment. The state, by its own published laws declares that it will not have built railroady paralleling each other within a distance of ten miles, except near the terminal, where of ten miles, except near the terminal, where necessarily they must come together closer than ten miles. The state policy, adopted after long and serious consideration as being for the best interests of the state, it seems to us should largely affect the action of the city touching such matters.

"Again, the value of street railway service depends largely upon the speed with which passengers may be carried to and from their homes. The proposed line of the Atlanta Electric Railway Company crosses the tracks of this company seven times. Those crossings will necessarily impede transit, for our cars must make over 500 stops more every day when those crossings are made than they are now making. That would delay from three to four thousand patrons about five minutes every day. Time is very valuable in meeting trains, business engagements, etc.

"This city has a mile of street car tracks to every 612 people—more than any other city known to us in the world. If our lines tre so paralleled as to make them less profare so paralleled as to make them less profitable we shall necessarily have to reductibe service along Pryor and Washington

the service along Pryor and Washington streets,

"The attention of the Hale Investment Company has often been called to the necessity of our protecting ourselves in these matters, but always with an offer on our part to enter into traffic arrangements with them in any way which would conserve the interests of all parties concerned. We believe that it would be profitable to all parties for them so to treat with us, but, of course, neither you nor we can force such contract.

"Because this matter is now before certain of your committees, which will consider it upon the return of the president of this company to the city, and because we would have it understood that we are not opposing the grant of franchise to other people generally, but simply opposing such as we believe would be injurious to our own property and to the real interests of the city of Atlanta and its citizens, we address you this communication, and ask that it also be referred to the same committees, that it may be considered along with

A communication signed by Mr. Earnest Woodruff, vice president of the Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company protesting against the petition for a fran-chise of the Atlanta Street Rallroad Com-pany to build an electric line to the old water works property, was read and referred to the committee on electric and other railroads. The communication set forth the views of the Consolidated company why the petritor should not be granted, and was as follows:

"To the Mayor and Council of the City of Atlanta—Gentlemen: We realize the importance to all concerned of the contest over the question of a new electric railway from the center of the city to the old waterworks property. The new company is interested in carrying out its projects. The city is interested in developing somewhat its own property outside of the city limits, and in doing what is right with regard to the citizens of Atlanta and other persons who have made investments such as may be affected thereby. The Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company is Interested, because an injudicious grant of a right by the city may be very injurious to it without

Mr. Welch told the council about the public hearing ac-corded on the petition by his committee on last Friday and announced that the petition would again be considered in public on next Monday afternoon, and invited all members of the council to be present at that hearing.

MR. MOODY'S VISIT.

The Action of the Evangelical Ministers Yesterday.

AN AUDITORIUM MAY BE ERECTED

A Committee of Twenty-one Appointed to Extend the City's Formal Invitation to Mr. Moody.

The meeting of the evangelical ministers yesterday morning at Trinity Methodist church was largely attended and the work accomplished by the association puts it on record as one of the best meetings of the Pear.

Dr. R. V. Atkisson presided and the duties of secretary were performed as usual by Dr. T. P. Cleveland. In regard to the letter received from Evangelist Moody, relative to a religious campaign in Atlanta during the exposition, the association was harmonious in extending an invitation to Mr. Moody on the terms suggested in his letter to Dr. Atkis-

It will be remembered that a letter from Mr. Moody was published in The Constitu-tion a few days ago in which he stated next fall if he could secure an auditorium This letter was read at the meeting yesterday morning. After a brief discussion it was agreed without a dissenting voice to extend Mr. Moody a formal invitation and to undertake to secure for him, before next fall, a suitable auditorium.

A committee of twenty-one, consisting of Dr. Atkisson as chairman, ten members of the association and ten laymen, belonging to the various churches of the city, was designated by the association to communicate with Mr. Moody and to extend to him a formal invitation, not only in behalf of the association, but in behalf of the churches and religious people of the city. Dr. Gilbert Invited.

It was announced at the meeting that Rev. J. E. Gilbert, the secretary of the American Society of Religious Education, was planning to make an extensive tour of the south and that Atlanta would probably be one of his stopping points. In order to make this sure a committee was appointed to extend an invitation to The object that Dr. Gilbert has in view in making this tour of the south is to organize Biblical institutes for the discovering of Bible truths. He is one of the obleat of Bible truths. He is one of the ablest men and one of the deepest thinkers of the religious world in this country. Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions of respect to the memory of Dr. S. S. Lumpkin, who died in memory of Dr. S. S. Lumpkin, who died in Atlanta recently, were adopted:

"Inasmuch as it has pleased God to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Rev. S. S. Lumpkin, an esteemed minister of the Baptist church; therefore, be it "Resolved, That this association has lost an earnest and faithful member, one who was ever ready to fearlessly advocate what he believed was right in accordance with God's will and word; that we extend our condolence to the stricken loved ones of his hobsehold, who have been called to suffer the sad separation, and rejoice with Ample Conveniencies.

Yesterday The Conveniency received a letter from Mr. Lee Shackelford, who is at Hotel Cumberland, on Cumberland island, announcing that he is prepared to receive guests for the season, He reports the most delightful fishing. Game is plentiful, and a good time generally can be had. The flowers are beginning to bloom, and the weather is warm and delightful.

This, no doubt, will be interesting information to the people of Atlanta, for they remember with much pleasure the mannurer in which Mr. Shackelford has entertained them upon former occasions, Doubtless many parties will be formed to visit the fishing grounds of Cumberland within the next week or so.
